

More Canadians in transit in 2006

December 19, 2006

TORONTO: More Canadians took a ride on public transit in the first half of 2006, according to new statistics compiled by the Canadian Urban Transit Association. It reports an increase of 3.42 per cent from the same period in 2005.

CUTA president Michael Roschlau says the increase represents 30 million transit trips, equal to the entire number of rides on a system the size of Edmonton's. He says if the trend is shown to have continued through the second half of the year, it will mark the seventh consecutive year transit ridership has gone up in Canada.
